FIGHTING JIM REED ATTACKS VOLSTEAD ACT

Missourian Ends Retirement To Fight For Democratic Congress.

FLAYS HOOVER

Makes Light of Wickersham Law Group.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—After a two-year voluntary retirement, the famous "fighting Jim" Reed, of Missouri Democracy, returned to the National political spotlight today with a declaration that he would campaign for a Democratic congress in November. With his usual "trifammer" force, Reed demanded unconditional repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act; flayed the Hoover administration for the stock market crash and the business depression that followed; criticizing the farm board for its handling of the wheat crisis, and literally rolled up his sleeves for the fall campaign.

The silver haired Democratic orator did not mention his foe of food administration days by name, but his attack on the administration left no doubt in the minds of his friends that he expects to give voice to invectives for which he was noted while in the senate and later during the pre-convention campaign. Reed visited the capital ostensibly in connection with his law practice, but soon he was the center of political speculation. He shied at proposals made by his friends, that he be a candidate for president, remarking he was content to "practice law in Kansas City," his home.

He admitted, however, that he had not lost interest in politics and disclosed his views on prohibition were as pronounced as ever.

He made light of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission, declaring there was no need for an "investigation to prove what is obvious to all intelligent people." He added:

"It is obvious that the people of the United States have given this noble experiment a thorough trial and it is the greatest failure of the last century."

He pointed to New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Michigan as evidence that prohibition could not be enforced without state assistance, and as certifying to "its absolute failure."

"The law was written by fanatics," he said. "It should have been written in blood by Draco, not by a civilized legislature."

He urged the return of liquor control to the states and declared that "if the states cannot enforce their own laws, we might as well wipe out all state lines and say we've got just one big government."

Reed placed responsibility for the stock market crash directly at the door of the Federal Reserve board for causing a "riot of speculation" by its policy of permitting large sums of money to go into the stock exchange through the banks.

GERMAN PARTY TO REPUDIATE WORLD TREATY

Hitler Tells German Standard-Bearers To Ignore Versailles Code.

NAMES PLANS

Cites Mussolini and His Attained Power.

By Walter Dietzel

LEIPZIG, Sept. 25.—Complete of the Versailles treaty is the chief aim of the Fascist party in Germany, which plans to take over the remains or government and establish a Fascist regime within three years, Adolf Hitler, standard-bearer of the German "blackshirts" declared here today.

Hitler's sensational statement was made during his testimony as witness in the trial of three young Reichswehr lieutenants charged with treason because of their efforts in behalf of the Fascist cause.

Greeted by cheers from admirers in the courtroom, echoed by thousands in the street outside, Hitler outlined his party's program as follows:

1. Bloodless overthrow of the Republic by the same means Premier Benito Mussolini took over Italy.
2. Repudiation of the Versailles treaty, war debts and reparations.
3. Avenging of the revolutionary "crimes" of 1918.
4. Complete victory for Fascism within three years by means of the ballot.

His aim, he declared, was to take over governmental power in a legal way, then tear the treaty of Versailles asunder, repudiate the stigma of war guilt saddled upon Germany of the present and future by that "illegal" document, and then "reforge the nation in flame of reborn national consciousness."

In support of his ideals, he cited the methods of Premier Benito Mussolini in taking over the reins of government in Italy and awakening the people to a new realization of their power.

"In three years," he said, "we will have 35,000,000 persons behind us. Then the third reich can begin."

The projected government of the Fascists is called the "Third Reich," symbolic of a step in advance of the present republic which succeeded the monarchy which was dissolved in 1918.

Thousands of Hitler's admirers gathered about his automobile as he entered the courtroom. Fire apparatus had to be called out to disperse the crowds which had demoralized street traffic.

Bobby Jones Finds Trouble Obtaining Edge Over Fay Coleman.

FINISHES FAST

Final 18 Holes of Match This Afternoon.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Robert Tyre Jones was a comfortable two up at the end of the first 18 holes of his match with Fay Coleman, of Los Angeles, here today. He didn't have the easy time expected but he came through with a hard drive on the last three holes, winning the sixteenth and seventeenth and halving the eighteenth after losing the fifteenth to be even.

Jones was having trouble with his second shots all morning and, although he was getting his drives well out ahead of Coleman at almost all the holes, the coast man succeeded in working his approach shots inside the Atlanta.

Jones reached the Nadir of his woes on the fifteenth hole when he went out of bounds with his drive and took a six. Coleman got a four to win the hole and square the match, but after that came Jones' wins at the sixteenth and seventeenth with pars and the half at the eighteenth.

Gene Homans, the "Met" champion, finished the morning round 4 up on Johnny Lehman, the Western title holder at the end of the 18 holes.

Homans, 1 up at the 10th, couldn't do better than halve to the 16th, but Lehman, lost three holes in a row. All Gene had to do was to play par golf for the last three holes to win all of them and finish the morning 4 up. He had a 73 to 78 for Lehman.

Rader scored a 40 on the first nine and was four up at the end of out-round. His good golf continued in the second round and at the end of the third hole had the match in his pocket.

House has proven the dark horse of the tournament to date, eliminating two men who were thought to have a good chance for the title. Mack Mader, last year's champion, and Caldwell, who has been playing consistent golf all summer. House's first match was against R. P. Enderlin.

SOVIET DENIES CROP CHARGES

High Official Says Bumper Crop of Wheat in Russia Causes Surplus.

By EDWARD L. DUESSE

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—Official denial that the Soviet government is "dumping" wheat and other grains on the markets of the world was made by a high Soviet official to International News Service here today.

The present glut of Russian grain upon the world's markets was said to be due to the harvesting of a bumper crop of grain, the largest in the history of the Soviet.

The bumper crop of wheat, barley and rye was harvested despite the fact government grain collections are slow due to the bulky unwieldy machinery of collection. In addition, peasant employees of collective farms are known to be "stalling," doing their best to halt speedy production of a commodity the bulk of which goes to the government and only a comparatively small amount to themselves.

In spite of all this, however, the government has been enabled to allocate for export a total of 4,000,000 and possibly 5,000,000 tons of wheat, barley and rye.

FOUR CASES IN COUNTY; FEVER REPORTED TOO

Unnecessary Contacts Are Scored By Dr. A. L. Stump, Commissioner.

WARNS PARENTS

Cases Are Reported In Four Sections.

Dr. A. L. Stump, county health commissioner, issued a statement Thursday warning parents of children in Circleville and Pickaway-co against the dread disease, infantile paralysis, which has taken a foot-hold on several parts of the county. There have been no cases reported in this city up to this time.

At the present time there are four cases of paralysis in the county, one in Pickaway-twp where Evelyn Carol is quarantined; one in Wayne-twp where Glen Payne is quarantined; one in Washington-twp where Ruth Good is quarantined and the fourth in Perry-twp at New Holland where Virginia Howard is confined with the malady.

This survey by the health office shows that the disease is not centralized in one section of the county but is scattered in four parts; Washington on the east, Wayne south-central, Pickaway south and New Holland, west.

Dr. Stump emphasizes the fact that precaution should be used by parents in preventing unnecessary contacts with other children. He advises that when children who have been pale and hearty suddenly turn fretful, feverish with stiffness of neck or slight change in the manner of walk a physician should be immediately summoned.

In the Good and Howard cases, Dr. Stump states that 13 children are exposed. In the Good family there are seven children besides the child afflicted by paralysis. In the Howard family there are six children besides the child which is ill.

Scarlet fever is also finding its way into the county, according to Dr. Stump with three cases reported.

The third case was quarantined Thursday when Evelyn, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whaley of Filad, Mich., who are visiting at the home of Mrs. Ruff in Jackson-twp. The Ruff home has been quarantined.

The other two cases of scarlet fever in the county are Jimmie Burton, Harrison-twp, and John Johnson, Madison-twp.

Ross-co is hit harder by paralysis than is Pickaway-co with three deaths having occurred there.

He charged that the Farm Board's wheat buying policy had destroyed the law of supply and demand, and had disturbed the world markets, because eventually the wheat must be sold and the market broken. He said Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's farm surplus policy was "silly."

An X-ray was to be taken at the hospital Thursday by Dr. E. S. Shane who is attending the injured youth. It is thought Blizzard is suffering from a fractured skull.

Blizzard had left his home Wednesday morning to hitch-hike to Williamsport with two other youths, Thomas Gordy and Donald Cunningham to visit Blizzard's aunt. Before they had gone far, the trio had picked up rides with Gordy in a car ahead of the others. The truck which later stopped to pick-up Blizzard and Cunningham skidded in gravel and threw the injured youth against a tree at the side of the road on the Lancaster-pk near this city.

RADER, HOUSE WIN MATCHES

Former Defeats Paul Adkins, and the Latter Eliminates
Felix R. Caldwell.

The state of affairs was changed considerably in the Pickaway Country club championship golf tournament, Wednesday afternoon when Dr. O. M. House of Williamsport eliminated F. E. Caldwell, this city, in a quarter-final match. House's margin was one up on 18 holes.

Earl Rader of Fox P. O., won the right to enter the finals of the upper bracket when he defeated Paul E. Adkins, this city, in a lopsided match. The margin of Rader's victory was seven up and six to go.

Rader scored a 40 on the first nine and was four up at the end of out-round. His good golf continued in the second round and at the end of the third hole had the match in his pocket.

House has proven the dark horse of the tournament to date, eliminating two men who were thought to have a good chance for the title, Mack Mader, last year's champion, and Caldwell, who has been playing consistent golf all summer. House's first match was against R. P. Enderlin.

The Williamsport man will play the winner of the T. O. Gilliland, Glen Geib match for the right to meet Rader in the finals. The Gilliland-Geib match was to be played Thursday afternoon.

The finals will be of 36 holes on Sunday, Oct. 5.

THIRD YOUTH FACES CHAIR

Bucyrus Jury Convicts Trio
For Murder of Gas Station
Proprietor.

BUCYRUS, O., Sept. 25.—Convicted of murder in the first degree in connection with the fatal shooting of Ralph Wilcox, Gallon filling station attendant, Earl Sites, last of a Mansfield bandit trio to be tried and convicted for the slaying, today awaited a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary.

Sites was found guilty of complicity in the murder late yesterday afternoon after the jury had deliberated only one hour and twenty minutes. His accomplices in the fatal shooting, Fred Massa and Kenneth McCartney, also were convicted of murder in the first degree and Massa is now in death row at Ohio Penitentiary. McCartney, whose sentence and removal to the prison were postponed so that he might testify in Sites' behalf, and Sites will probably be formally sentenced and placed in death row sometime this week. Massa is scheduled to be electrocuted January 2.

McCartney, who was brought in to the courtroom yesterday heavily manacled, did not have a gun when the holdup and shooting occurred. He also insisted from the witness stand that the trio had not planned to "stick-up" the station.

A new trial will be asked for Sites, his attorney announced here today.

SOVIET DENIES CROP CHARGES

High Official Says Bumper
Crop of Wheat in Russia
Causes Surplus.

By EDWARD L. DUESS

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—Official denial that the Soviet government is "dumping" wheat and other grains on the markets of the world was made by a high Soviet official to International News Service here today.

The present glut of Russian grain upon the world's markets was said to be due to the harvesting of a bumper crop of grain, the largest in the history of the Soviet.

The bumper crop of wheat, barley and rye was harvested despite the fact government grain collections are slow due to the bulky unwieldy machinery of collection. In addition, peasant employees of collective farms are known to be "stalling," doing their best to halt speedy production of a commodity the bulk of which goes to the government and only a comparatively small amount to themselves.

In spite of all this, however, the government has been enabled to allocate for export a total of 4,000,000 and possibly 5,000,000 tons of wheat, barley and rye.

FOUR CASES IN COUNTY; FEVER REPORTED TOO

Unnecessary Contacts Are Scored By Dr. A. L. Stump,
Commissioner.

WARNS PARENTS

Cases Are Reported In Four Sections.

Dr. A. L. Stump, county health commissioner, issued a statement Thursday warning parents of children in Circleville and Pickaway-co against the dread disease, infantile paralysis, which has taken a foot-hold on several parts of the county. There have been no cases reported in this city up to this time.

At the present time there are four cases of paralysis in the county, one in Pickaway-twp where Evelyn Carrol is quarantined; one in Wayne-twp where Glen Payne is quarantined; one in Washington-twp where Ruth Good is quarantined and the fourth in Perry-twp at New Holland where Virginia Howard is confined with the malady.

This survey by the health office shows that the disease is not centralized in one section of the county but is scattered in four parts; Washington on the east, Wayne south-central, Pickaway south and New Holland, west.

Dr. Stump emphasizes the fact that precaution should be used by parents in preventing unnecessary contacts with other children. He advises that when children who have been hale and hearty become suddenly fretful, feverish with stiffness of neck or slight change in the manner of walk a physician should be immediately summoned.

In the Good and Howard cases, Dr. Stump states that 13 children are exposed. In the Good family there are seven children besides the child afflicted by paralysis. In the Howard family there are six children besides the child which is ill.

Scarlet fever is also finding its way into the county, according to Dr. Stump with three cases reported.

The third case was quarantined Thursday when Evelyn, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whaley of Flint, Mich., who are visiting at the home of Mrs. Ruff in Jackson-twp. The Ruff home has been quarantined.

The other two cases of scarlet fever in the county are Jimmie Burton, Harrison-twp, and John Johnson, Madison-twp.

Ross-co is hit harder by paralysis than is Pickaway-co with three deaths having occurred there.

MARRIAGE OF 3 MONTHS ON ROCKS

Young Wife Files
Cross-petition.

Leland Seimer of Stoutsville through his father, Andrew M. Seimer, has filed suit in Fairfield-co courts for divorce from Ruth Anna Seimer whom he married on June 30 in Cattlesburg, Ky.

Young Seimer charges that he was coerced into the marriage upon the persuasions and threats of the defendant that she would commit suicide and that she was expecting to become a mother by him. The husband says that the latter statement is false and that she has been guilty of gross neglect of duty that on July 26 she left him and has not resided with him since.

The wife has filed a cross-petition stating that he has been guilty of gross neglect. Mrs. Seimer charges that her mother-in-law wants him to get a divorce to marry a former sweetheart.

elements for those supposed to enter the standard fertilizer. A farmer buying an inferior fertilizer is sure to have inferior crop and the loss is passed on to general public, for short crops make high prices.

Some years ago it was discovered that a state employee had for a long time been receiving pay from a firm of fertilizer manufacturers for substituting good samples for those taken at the plants by the inspectors. These samples went to the chemists and were of course approved by them, for they were up to the legal specifications, but a very poor inferior product went out from the plant of that company to the farmers. It was only by accident that this system of cheating was discovered and it never was known how long it had been carried on, but the farmers had been made the goats for a long time at any rate.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio, Sept. 25.
Circleville Daily Herald,
Editorial Department,
Circleville, Ohio.
Gentlemen:

September 23, you carried in your paper a report on the proposed abandonment of a B. & O. overhead bridge at Era. I wonder if the taxpayers who read it will really understand what it means to Pickaway county and how their rights were protected by the Pickaway County Commissioners?

First to understand the proposed abandonment let's have the facts:

Era because of Deer Creek and the B. & O. is very unfortunately situated. The main portion of Era lies along the I. C. H. 50 highway with about 4,000 vehicles traveling it a day, with a dangerous curve at the lower end of it, also a curve within the northeastern limits with no long distance visibility at either curve and one curve is a blind one.

Passing through Era and southwest of it about 1/2 mile is one of the most dangerous grade crossings along the entire I. C. H. 50 highway and B. & O. Railroad System. This crossing cannot be eliminated for the following reasons:

To go under the B. & O. at this point necessitates a 10 foot raise in the railroad which will raise the tracks in Mt. Sterling, Ohio, and the highway in going under it will still be below the water line of Deer Creek.

To go over the railroad will necessitate an expenditure of $86,000 more money and still have the hazard of a dangerous incline and expensive fills.

The dangerous condition of curves, visibility, floods at Era would remain the same and already several people have been killed and injured there.

Now as to the proposed improvement costing $186,000 of which the B. & O. Railroad pays $60,000, Madison County $45,000 and the State Highway Department $81,000. You will note Pickaway pays nothing.

This improvement leaves off the I. C. H. 50 highway about 900 feet north of Era, crosses the B. & O. Railroad with an overhead bridge, a 30 ft. roadway and 8 ft. sidewalks, just 300 ft. north of the present wooden bridge and continues in a southerly direction crossing Deer Creek at the edge of Mt. Sterling over a Joint County Bridge at that point.

The proposed abandoned overhead is of wooden structure with a better than 5 per cent grade, dangerous with a load, is very shaky and will soon have to be replaced with a new one, which ought to be of concrete and will cost about $60,000 of which Pickaway County pays 60 per cent.

On this street in Era there is no business of any kind and comes onto I. C. H. 50 blind or with no visibility on this heavy traveled highway and if abandoned at the railroad it would be much safer for the school children to travel as they will have a cinder walk all the way to the school on the new road.

Furthermore, it will give Era a chance to grow and be a distinct benefit to it in the future and of advantage to every farmer both north and south of Era by making the elevator more accessible to every one of them.

These abandonment proceedings were started upon the initiative of Pickaway County Commissioners, was duly advertised as to view and hearing. They also had given their word to the State Highway Department the same would be abandoned.

The question now arises is whether the County Commissioners,

Some years ago it was discovered that a state employee had for a long time been receiving pay from a firm of fertilizer manufacturers for substituting good samples for those taken at the plants by the inspectors. These samples went to the chemists and were of course approved by them, for they were up to the legal specifications, but a very poor inferior product went out from the plant of that company to the farmers. It was only by accident that this system of cheating was discovered and it never was known how long it had been carried on, but the farmers had been made the goats for a long time at any rate.

Under the complete system of checks adopted by the present administration such an affair would be impossible. When a farmer buys a shipment of fertilizer now, he can feel certain that, if it bears the state certificate, as it must if it is sold in this state, it is what he has paid for. This makes for good farming.

NATURE GUARDIANS

The organization of the above is made up of Ohio children of school age. By signing a pledge card to protect wild life and to uphold the game laws, each member is presented with a certificate of membership, a cardinal lapel button and "course of study" pamphlets, that teach elementary things about wild life and nature. It's all free. The membership is expected to reach 100,000 this year. Individuals may secure material direct or teachers may present the matter and enlist whole schools. The movement is intended to interest children in the out-of-doors, and inculcate understanding and observance of game, lake and park laws. Particulars may be had from the Conservation Division, Bureau of Education, Columbus.

Mr. Thompson's shoulder was broken and his son received bad cuts about the face. Both are still bedfast, but reported on the road to recovery.

CONVICT MAKES PRINT SYSTEM

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—A finger print system whereby inmate character traits can be determined and diagnosed was being examined with much interest here today by local police and state penitentiary officials.

Carl I. Sherwood, the inventor, a trustee at the Roseville brick plant, claims that by his "Dactylanalysis System", which he has recently perfected after a long period of research in the library of the criminal identification bureau, he can unerringly read a person's character tendencies by their fingerprint impressions.

The convict, who was formerly an employee of the state bureau of criminal identification, was sentenced to serve from two to 20 years for an automobile theft. He has offered the results of his study to the Ohio penal welfare commission.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio, Sept. 25.
Circleville Daily Herald,
Editorial Department,
Circleville, Ohio.

September 23, you carried in your paper a report on the proposed abandonment of a B. & O. overhead bridge at Era. I wonder if the taxpayers who read it will really understand what it means to Pickaway county and how their rights were protected by the Pickaway County Commissioners?

First to understand the proposed abandonment let's have the facts:

Era because of Deer Creek and the B. & O. is very unfortunately situated. The main portion of Era lies along the I. C. H. 50 highway with about 4,000 vehicles traveling it a day, with a dangerous curve at the lower end of it, also a curve within the northeastern limits with no long distance visibility at either curve and one curve is a blind one.

Passing through Era and southwest of it about 1/2 mile is one of the most dangerous grade crossings along the entire I. C. H. 50 highway and B. & O. Railroad System. This crossing cannot be eliminated for the following reasons:

To go under the B. & O. at this point necessitates a 10 foot raise in the railroad which will raise the tracks in Mt. Sterling, Ohio, and the highway in going under it will still be below the water line of Deer Creek.

To go over the railroad will necessitate an expenditure of $86,000 more money and still have the hazard of a dangerous incline and expensive fills.

The dangerous condition of curves, visibility, floods at Era would remain the same and already several people have been killed and injured there.

Now as to the proposed improvement costing $186,000 of which the B. & O. Railroad pays $60,000, Madison County $45,000 and the State Highway Department $81,000. You will note Pickaway pays nothing.

This improvement leaves off the I. C. H. 50 highway about 900 feet north of Era, crosses the B. & O. Railroad with an overhead bridge, a 30 ft. roadway and 8 ft. sidewalks, just 300 ft. north of the present wooden bridge and continues in a southerly direction crossing Deer Creek at the edge of Mt. Sterling over a Joint County Bridge at that point.

The proposed abandoned overhead is of wooden structure with a better than 5 per cent grade, dangerous with a load, is very shaky and will soon have to be replaced with a new one, which ought to be of concrete and will cost about $60,000 of which Pickaway County pays 60 per cent.

On this street in Era there is no business of any kind and comes onto I. C. H. 50 blind or with no visibility on this heavy traveled highway and if abandoned at the railroad it would be much safer for the school children to travel as they will have a cinder walk all the way to the school on the new road.

Furthermore, it will give Era a chance to grow and be a distinct benefit to it in the future and of advantage to every farmer both north and south of Era by making the elevator more accessible to every one of them.

These abandonment proceedings were started upon the initiative of Pickaway County Commissioners, was duly advertised as to view and hearing. They also had given their word to the State Highway Department the same would be abandoned.

The question now arises is whether the County Commissioners represent the majority or minority taxpayers. Should twelve or more persons at Era thwart the majority will of the U. S. Government, State of Ohio and the counties surrounding it? This proposal has been contemplated for eight years or more and is not just an overnight dream.

You should remember now that the refusal to abandon the wooden bridge upon the part of the Commissioners cancels the proposed improvement costing approximately $186,000 and to be spent in this county. Not one dime of it is to be paid by Pickaway County.

That the B. & O. will make Pickaway County co-operate in building a new concrete overhead estimated to cost about $36,000. Also the Joint County Bridge over Deer Creek within the next four or five years will have to be replaced costing Pickaway County from $20,000 to $30,000.

Some of you may say that politics is the reason this is written but I can say right back to you that this is not the only case in the past year or so that certain projects have gone through for votes and can be pointed out to you upon request but this one case is so large an amount and obvious that I think it is time that you people should know.

It all simmers down to this, approximately $60,000 for about 20 votes in Era with the taxpayers being the payee. With the lives of traveling public still in peril by a very dangerous grade crossing and bad curves when the saving of one life is worth the $186,000.

Very truly yours,

BRYCE BRIGGS.

Nature's Protection

The bureau of fisheries says that shrimps do not throw off a secretion which discolors the water, but that this fluid is discharged by the squids, which frequently travel in schools of shrimps. This discharge is a thin black fluid which occurs in sacs in the body of all octopods, and is used as a protection to enable the animal to escape when being pursued.

WALNUT VICTORIOUS

Walnut and Williamsport played a hard-fought game Friday, Sept. 21. Walnut is a small team but ready to fight and play real football, while Williamsport has a larger but less experienced team. At the end of the half Walnut led with six points, the extra kick being blocked. The second half Williamsport regained their strength and made a march for the goal post, the result changing the score. Walnut's aerial attack was somewhat knocked to pieces by the opposing team. Walnut's line held wonderfully during the game but not quite strong enough to hold against one touchdown, while Williamsport gave Walnut two touchdowns. Both teams played a good game and showed wonderful prospects.

"Master Minds" Of Congress To Face Extinction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The prohibition issue already has claimed the political lives of some of the "best minds" of Congress and the people will suffer from less efficient government unless the fight is settled, Rep. L. C. Dyer (R) of Missouri, veteran member of the house declared today.

The quarrel over prohibition has grown so intense in many sections of the country, according to Dyer, that the ablest men in Congress face defeat unless they read the minds of their constituents on this one question.

Having no opposition in his own district for re-election, Dyer viewed the difficulties of many of his colleagues in the primaries and the election from a detached position. Although a wet, he praised the ability of some of the defeated dries.

"In the recent primaries some of our ablest and best men have been defeated," he said. "The list is growing and unless we modify the Volstead act, more able men will be sacrificed."

"While the men who succeed these legislators may be able, every member of Congress knows that experience is a valuable asset."

"There is no doubt but that efficiency of government will suffer from this issue, with tried and brilliant men turned out of office regardless of their abilities."

Dyer named Rep. Cramton (R) of Michigan, unofficial dry leader, as one able legislator who fell because of the wet and dry issue.

Cramton, he said, was a valuable member of the appropriations committee and was industrious in consideration of other legislation. Rep. Dempsey (R) of New York, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, was named as another fine legislator who was defeated.

"The wets will make a big gain in the elections this year," he said. "They will gain even more in the next Congress after reapportionment, because the cities will gain members at the expense of rural districts, which have not kept pace in population."

"We may expect to see more good members defeated because they are not 'right' on the issue. People against prohibition now are taking the attitude the anti-saloon league first took—they are against a dry no-matter what his general qualifications for office may be."

"Before long one of our major parties will declare for repeal modification of the Volstead Act, so permit making 2.75 percent beer, would take the issue out of politics for years to come.

Dyer is hopeful that the Wickersham commission and President Hoover both will recommend modification as an aid to enforcement of the ban of hard liquor.

SCARFACE AL IS BONDSMAN

Chicago Authorities Believe Leader Muscles Way Into Bonding Firm.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Al "Scarface" Capone and his gang of associates today were reported to have taken over a surety company specializing in making bonds for federal prisoners.

Weight was lent to the rumors by the appearance before the federal grand jury of District George E. Q. Johnson and eight present and former employees of the company.

Another theory prompted by the appearance of Prosecutor Johnson was that Capone and his allies had muscled their way into control of the company.

CAR BLOWS UP MAN INJURED

AKRON, O., Sept. 25.—Police investigation was conducted here today to determine the cause of a mysterious automobile explosion which fatally injured the driver, Clarence R. Barnes, 43, of Akron, and completely demolished the machine on Mogadore road last night.

Barnes died on the operating table at city hospital a short time after the blast. His left foot was torn away and his left leg was crushed so severely that amputation was declared necessary by physicians.

The explosion occurred as Barnes was driving toward Akron from a business trip to Randolph. He was hurled through the top of the car, a coupe, 50 feet in the air and landed in a field nearly 100 feet from the road, according to witnesses.

Two theories were advanced as to the cause of the explosion. One was that a bomb had been planted in the automobile, which Barnes had borrowed from W. M. Cornell, a roomer at his home. The other was that the gasoline tank became ignited from a short circuit in the wiring.

Police stated this morning that they had been unable to discover a motive for the planting of a bomb in the machine. They said that as far as could be determined Barnes had no enemies.

To Try Ex-Sheriff

The first testimony in the trial of Lyall Wright (above), former "boy sheriff" of Juneau county, Wis., charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of District Attorney Clinton Price, will probably be taken Thursday, Sept. 25. Price was shot to death last April 13 at his home in Mauston, Wis.

MOTHER OF TEN FACES MURDER

LAPLATA, Md., Sept. 25.—A shot Mrs. Lulu M. Gamble, 45, is said to have admitted she fired to "frighten" her husband and his girl friend but which fatally wounded the girl, held her today on a charge of murder. She is the mother of ten children.

Mrs. Elsie Davis, 22, the other woman, died after lingering between life and death since Friday. Mrs. Gamble confronted Mrs. Davis and Gamble as they sat in the latter's machine near the Gamble home here.

The wife told a coroner's jury she didn't mean to kill Mrs. Davis and only fired to scare her from her husband Gamble was the chief witness against his wife and he announced he would not aid her in financing her defense. He is a prosperous farmer and keeper of bees here.

Mrs. Davis' husband is serving a sentence on a road gang in Virginia for violating the prohibition law. Guards took him to his wife's bedside in a Washington hospital before she died but she did not recognize him.

"Master Minds" Of Congress To Face Extinction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The prohibition issue already has claimed the political lives of some of the "best minds" of Congress and the people will suffer from less efficient government unless the fight is settled, Rep. L. C. Dyer (R) of Missouri, veteran member of the house declared today.

The quarrel over prohibition has grown so intense in many sections of the country, according to Dyer, that the ablest men in Congress face defeat unless they read the minds of their constituents on this one question.

Having no opposition in his own district for re-election, Dyer viewed the difficulties of many of his colleagues in the primaries and the election from a detached position. Although a wet, he praised the ability of some of the defeated dries.

"In the recent primaries some of our ablest and best men have been defeated," he said. "The list is growing and unless we modify the Volstead act, more able men will be sacrificed."

"While the men who succeed these legislators may be able, every member of Congress knows that experience is a valuable asset."

"There is no doubt but that efficiency of government will suffer from this issue, with tried and brilliant men turned out of office regardless of their abilities."

Dyer named Rep. Cramton (R) of Michigan, unofficial dry leader, as one able legislator who fell because of the wet and dry issue.

Cramton, he said, was a valuable member of the appropriations committee and was industrious in consideration of other legislation. Rep. Dempsey (R) of New York, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, was named as another fine legislator who was defeated.

"The wets will make a big gain in the elections this year," he said. "They will gain even more in the next Congress after reappointment, because the cities will gain members at the expense of rural districts, which have not kept pace in population."

"We may expect to see more good members defeated because they are not 'right' on the issue. People against prohibition now are taking the attitude the anti-saloon league first took—they are against a dry no matter what his general qualifications for office may be."

"Before long one of our major parties will declare for repeal. Modification of the Volstead Act, to permit making 2.75 percent beer, would take the issue out of politics for years to come.

Dyer is hopeful that the Wickersham commission and President Hoover both will recommend modification as an aid to enforcement of the ban of hard liquor.

SCARFACE AL IS BONDSMAN

Chicago Authorities Believe Leader Muscles Way Into Bonding Firm.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Al "Scarface" Capone and his gang of associates today were reported to have taken over a surety company specializing in making bonds for federal prisoners.

Weight was lent to the rumors by the appearance before the federal grand jury of District George E. Q. Johnson and eight present and former employees of the company.

Another theory prompted by the appearance of Prosecutor Johnson was that Capone and his allies had muscled their way into control of the company.

CAR BLOWS UP MAN INJURED

AKRON, O., Sept. 25.—Police investigation was conducted here today to determine the cause of a mysterious automobile explosion which fatally injured the driver, Clarence R. Barnes, 43, of Akron, and completely demolished the machine on Mogadore road last night.

Barnes died on the operating table at city hospital a short time after the blast. His left foot was torn away and his left leg, was crushed so severely that amputation was declared necessary by physicians.

The explosion occurred as Barnes was driving toward Akron on a business trip to Randolph. He was hurled through the top of the car, a coupe, 50 feet in the air and landed in a field nearly 100 feet from the road, according to witnesses.

Two theories were advanced as to the cause of the explosion. One was that a bomb had been planted in the automobile, which Barnes had borrowed from W. M. Cornell, a roomer at his home. The other was that the gasoline tank became ignited from a short circuit in the wiring.

Police stated this morning that they had been unable to discover a motive for the planting of a bomb in the machine. They said that as far as could be determined Barnes had no enemies.

To Try Ex-Sheriff

The first testimony in the trial of Lyall Wright (above), former "boy sheriff" of Juneau county, Wis., charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of District Attorney Clinton Price, will probably be taken Thursday, Sept. 25. Price was shot to death last April 13 at his home in Mauston, Wis.

MOTHER OF TEN FACES MURDER

LAPLATA, Md., Sept. 25.—A shot Mrs. Lulu M. Gamble, 45, is said to have admitted she fired to "frighten" her husband and his girl friend but which fatally wounded the girl, held her today on a charge of murder. She is the mother of ten children.

Mrs. Elsie Davis, 22, the other woman, died after lingering between life and death since Friday. Mrs. Gamble confronted Mrs. Davis and Gamble as they sat in the latter's machine near the Gamble home here.

The wife told a coroner's jury she didn't mean to kill Mrs. Davis and only fired to scare her from her husband. Gamble was the chief witness against his wife and he announced he would not aid her in financing her defense. He is a prosperous farmer and keeper of bees here.

Mrs. Davis' husband is serving a sentence on a road gang in Virginia for violating the prohibition law. Guards took him to his wife's bedside in a Washington hospital before she died but she did not recognize him.

The Law's Delay

The case here referred to happened in Chicago, but might have happened in almost any other American city. Read this shameful record of procrastinating justice.

On Jan. 18, 1929, six men armed with shotguns and revolvers robbed a bank, killed a watchman, wounded two cashiers, endangered many other lives and escaped with $800. They were all captured two days later. They confessed to this and 60 other robberies. They were indicted for murder Jan. 23 and tried three months later. Three of them were sentenced to death and three to life imprisonment.

So far, good—though a little slower than Canada would have handled the business. Then what happened? To quote from a summary published the other day by the Chicago and Cook-county Bankers' Association:

"Five stays were granted during the summer to permit the state supreme court to pass on the case. A bill of objections was delivered to the supreme court on July 16, 1929. It was not until eight months later that the court finally acted and affirmed the death sentence. Despite this delay, the supreme court one month later complicated and delayed the case by allowing a rehearing.

"Four months later, in July 1930, the judgement and action of the lower court was affirmed for the second time by the supreme court."

Thus a year was lost. Then came a writ or habeas corpus. When it was denied, petitions were filed alleging that the defendants had become insane. Separate hearings followed before juries which pronounced the prisoners sane. There was a hearing before the state pardon board, which refused clemency. Many dates were set for execution, and a score of stays were granted, the last of them on Sept. 5, effective until Oct. 3, to allow the pardon board to give the criminals a second hearing on a plea for clemency.

This is the way criminal justice is administered in a typical American city and state. And then we wonder why we have so much crime.

Who would ever have thought Calvin Coolidge had so many opinions?

The Gold Star Pilgrims

The last group of this year's gold star pilgrims is homeward bound. All through the summer, beginning last May, parties of World War mothers and widows whose dead lie in foreign graves have been crossing the Atlantic as guests of the United States government. To some, at first, it seemed an unwise undertaking. It proved more satisfactory than even its sponsors had hoped.

In the first place, the visit to the war graves brought peace to many sad hearts. Women not before reconciled to leaving their dear ones in European cemeteries came home feeling satisfied that it was the right thing to do.

Again the war mothers of the United States saw at first hand what the war had been to thousands of other mothers closer to the scene. This mutual understanding between foreign women and the pilgrims from America was well worth cultivating.

Such journeys to war memorials and military cemeteries are not likely to create war spirit. Their lessons are all on the other side.

Now that we can play golf on an ordinary front lawn, hadn't we better expand our croquet?

The Signed Home

A PAINTER signs his name to his picture. An author signs his name to his book. An automobile maker puts his name on his car. Why shouldn't a builder put his name on his house? That is what a lumber man wants to know. Architects have asked the same question.

A fine house is at the same time a work of art and a utilitarian product that attracts attention and merits respect. A plate attached to the finished home would be a guarantee of quality and a recognition of ability and honesty. It might well carry the name of the architect and the builder who have collaborated in the work.

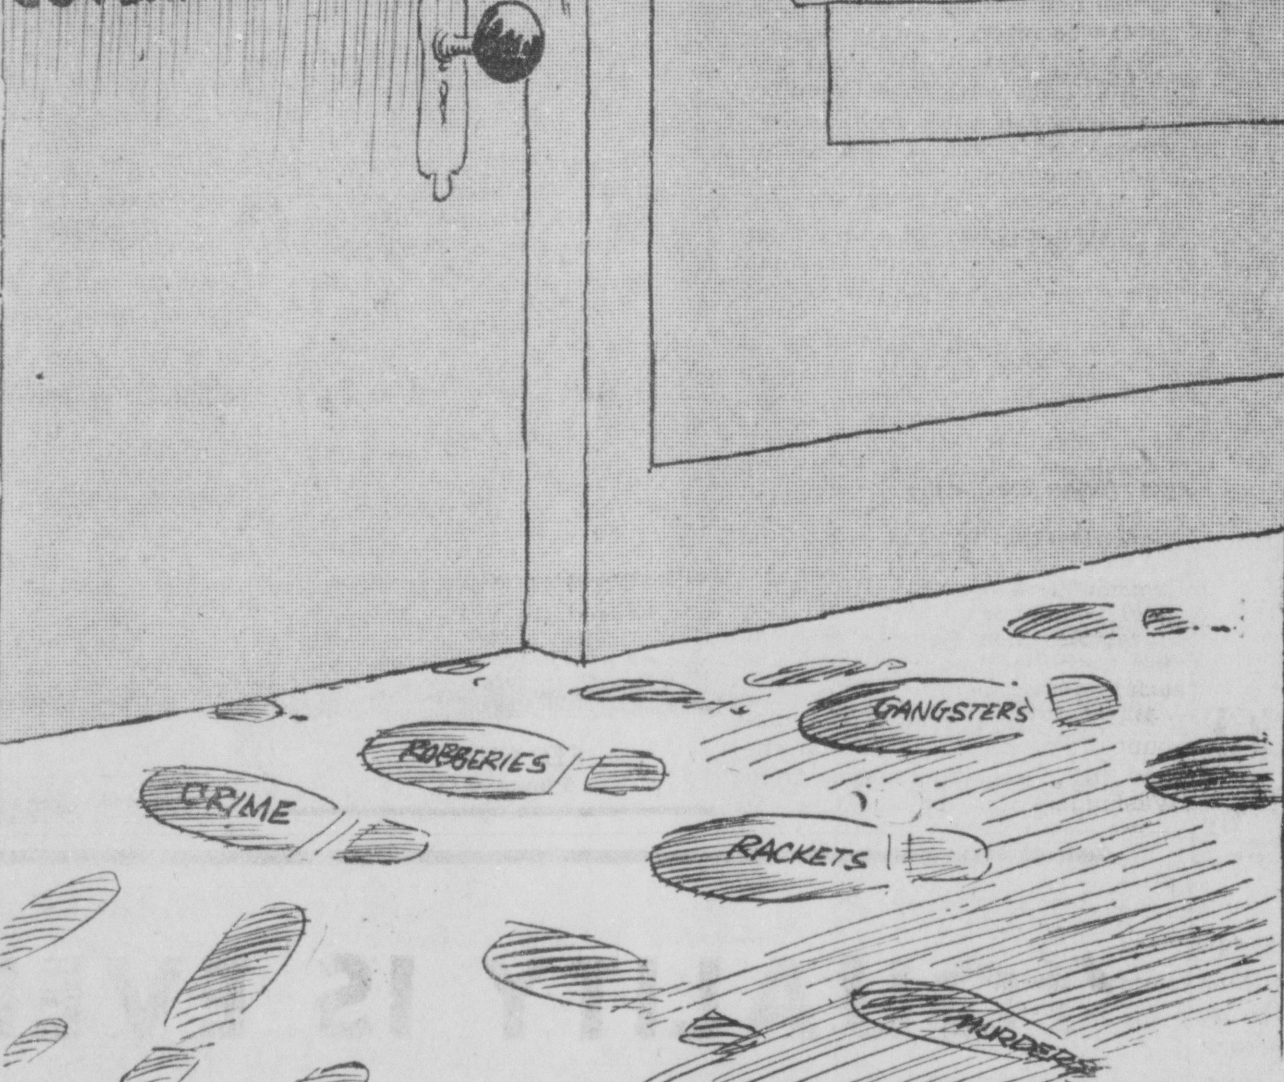

This is especially true in present-day America, where the finest homes in the world are built.

Catching Criminals

Fingerprints may have been used 3,000 years ago by ancient detectives, but there were some scoundrels of that time who haven't been caught yet.—St. Louis City Journal.

THE END OF THE TRAILS?

CORRUPT CITY GOVERNMENTS

"The SEA BRIDE"

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XLII.

NOLL shook Faith away and went up to the deck with Dan'l at his heels. The Sally, riding high, as whalers do, was reasonably dry; but she was fighting desperately in the gale, racking her rigging. The wind seemed to clear Noll's head. He looked about, aloft; belloyed an order to get sail on her.

Faith protested. "Noll, she'll never stand!" He brushed her away with clenched fist. She took shelter in a corner by the deckhouse, ten feet from him. Noll Wing took the ship, and under his hand the Sally did miracles.

That fight with the storm was a deed men still talk about; they say it was an inhuman and a marvellous thing. Noll stood aft, legs braced, scolding a handhold. His voice rang through the singing wind to the remotest corner of the Sally and the highest spar. Regardless of wind and sea, he crowded on sail, brought her around to the course he wished to take, and drove her into it. Time and time again, during that afternoon and that long night, every sane man aboard thought her very masts must be torn out of her. Three times sails did go; but Noll would never slacken. On the after deck, he raved like a madman, but his commands were seamen's. A miracle of seamanship and stark madness, but madness that succeeded. The Sally drove into the gale, she fought as madly as Noll himself was fighting; and Noll, aft, screamed through the night and drove them on.

Faith never left her post, so near him. No man aboard had sleep that night. No man dared sleep, lest death find him in his dreams. Willis Cox and Tichel came to Noll more than once, beseeching; but he drove them away. Dan'l never interfered with the captain; it seemed there was a madness on him, too. And Brander and Dan'l Tobey between them were Noll's right hand and his left, driving the men to the tasks Noll set them, holding them sternly in hand.

They could only guess how far they had come through the darkness and the storm. An hour before daylight Dan'l stopped to gasp to Faith:

"We're near there, I'm thinking—if we're not nearer the bottom!" Brander took more practical steps. He found Mauger, set the one-eyed man well forward, and bade him watch and listen for the first sign of land. Mauger nodded chucklingly; he gripped a hold on the rail lines, set his one eye into the darkness, and tuned his ear to the storm.

The wind by this time was moderating; even Faith could feel a slackening of the pressure of it that had torn at her garments the night through. She was weak with fighting it; nevertheless, she held her post. And the steady thrust of the gale slowly modified and gave way. The first hints of light showed in the skies. They caught glimpses of scudding clouds low overhead, but the worst was past, and every man knew it. Noll, still standing like a colossus at his post, knew it; he shook his fist at the skies and the sea, and he cursed the wind and dared it.

Faith could see him dimly in the growing light—his head bare, his eyes frantic, his cheeks sunken; an enormous but wasted figure of a man.

The very waters about them were quieting somewhat. Their nerves and their muscles relaxed; they were straining their eyes to pierce into the dimness of the coming day.

It was Mauger, in the bows, who caught the first hint of danger. "e saw that they drove abruptly from long-rolling swells into quieter waters. He stared off to windward, looking to see what had broken the force of the seas. He saw nothing; but though he heard a rumbling roar there. Then he looked forward, where the less turbulent waters were piling ahead of them.

He looked forward and glimpsed a line of white that lived and never died, and he turned and screamed a warning aft—ran, to carry the word, screaming as he ran.

Brander, amidships, heard him and shouted to Noll Wing, but Noll did not hear. The captain was intoxicated with the long battle; he was delicious with the cry of tortured nerves and starved body. He did not hear.

Mauger flashed past Brander as he ran. The one-eyed man's screams were inarticulate now. It was too late to swing the ship clear, in any case.

Noll saw Mauger coming. He put up his hands and his eyes glared. He shrieked with overwhelming terror. Mauger flung on. Then the Sally's bows drove on the solid sand; Mauger sprawled; men everywhere fell headlong. Noll was thrown back against the after rail.

Mauger rolled over and over where he fell, and it chanced that his sheath-knife dropped out in the fall and touched his hand. He had it in his fingers when he scrambled to his feet, still intent on bearing his warning. He had the knife in his hand as he leaped toward the wheel. He did not yet realize that it was too late to swerve the Sally. Toward the wheel he ran, knife in hand, forgetting knife and Noll Wing.

To Noll's eyes, where he stood behind the wheel, Mauger must have looked like a charging fiend. He saw the knife. "He screamed again, and turned and flung himself out over the after rail.

He was instantly gone. Perhaps the undertow, perhaps some creature of the sea, perhaps the fates that had hung over him since the Sally's bows drove on the solid sand; but those aboard the Sally Sims were never to see Noll Wing again, nor Noll's dead body.

Dawn came abruptly; a lowering dawn, with gray and greasy clouds racing past so low that they seemed to scrape and tear themselves upon the tips of the masts. No sun showed; there was no light in the sky. The dawn was evidenced only by a lessening of the blackness of the night. They could see, that was all. There was no fog, but a steady rain sprang up and clouded objects at a little distance.

This rain had one good effect—it beat down the turbulence of the waves. Faith, from the bow, could see that they had grounded upon a sandy beach which spread like a crescent to right and left. The tips of the crescent were rocky points which sheltered the Sally from the full force of the seas. She was not pounding upon the sand; she lay where she had struck, heeled a little to one side. There were breakers about her and ahead of her upon the sand; but these were not dangerous. They were caused by the reflex tumult of the waters, stirred up in this sheltered bay in sympathy with the storm outside.

The gale was dying now. Above them the wind still raced and played with the flying clouds; but there was no pressure of it upon what little canvas the Sally still flew. They were at peace.

At peace! Faith, studying the position of the Sally, was herself at peace. This was her first rest action to her husband's death; she was at peace.

Noll was gone, but life had burdened him too long. He was well rid of it, she thought; well rid of the tormented flesh; well rid of the terror which had pursued him.

When Noll went over the stern, Dan'l Tobey appeared from nowhere, and saw Mauger with the knife in his hand, standing paralyzed with horror. Dan'l fell upon Mauger, fists flying. He downed the little man, dropped on him with both knees, gripped for his throat.

Then Brander, coming from the waist of the ship on Mauger's heels, caught Dan'l by the collar and jerked him to his feet. Dan'l's hands, clenched on Mauger's throat, lifted the little man a foot from the deck before they let go to grip for Brander. The men clustered aft; old Tichel's teeth bared. In another moment, there would have been a death-battle upon the littered decks.

But Faith cried through the gloom:

"Dan'l! Mr. Brander! Drop it! Stand away!"

There was a command in her clear tones which Dan'l must have obeyed, and Brander did as she bade instinctively. The two still faced each other, heads forward, shoulders lowered. Behind Brander, Mauger crawled to his feet, choking and fumbling at his throat. Faith said to Dan'l:

"I saw what happened, Dan'l. It was not the fault of Mauger." "He had a knife—" "He fell, she said. "I saw. He fell when the Sally struck; his knife dropped from its sheath. He picked it up. That was all."

"All?" Dan'l protested. "He drove Noll Wing to death!" She shook her head.

"No. It was Noll's own terrors. Noll was mad."

"What was Mauger doing aft, then? He'd no place here."

"I had him forward, watching for breakers," Brander explained. "He saw them and yelled, and when no one heard, he raced to give the word."

Faith nodded. "Yes; he was gripping for the wheel to swing it down, even when Noll—"

Dan'l swung to Brander. "You're overquick to come between me and the men, Mr. Brander," he said harshly. "Best mend that."

"I'll not see Mauger smashed for no fault," Brander told him steadily.

Dan'l took a step nearer the other. "You'll understand I'm master here, now!"

There was battle in Brander's eyes. Men's blood was hot that morning. But Faith stepped between.

"Dan'l, Noll's gone. First thing is to get the Sally free."

Dan'l still eyed Brander for a moment; then he drew back, swung away, looked around. The island they had struck was barely visible through the drifting rain.

"This is not where we headed," he said.

"You know this place?" "No."

"Then we'll get the ship clear; quick as may be."

He smiled sneeringly. "I'm thinking we're here to stay. Faith. Leastwise, the Sally is."

"The Sally does not stay here," Faith told him sternly. "She floats; she fills her casks; she goes safely home to Jonathan Felt. Mark that, Dan'l."

"You're not overconcerned for Noll's going," Faith said sullenly. "Yes; he's gone," said Faith. "I go end to that. But the Sally was charged; she's my life; she's my life; I mean to see her safe home."

"Your charge?" Dan'l asked. "It's in my mind that the captain dies, the mate succeeds."

"You take his place if I choose," Faith told him.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Norma Shearer is starred by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in the picture of "Let Us Be Gay," which is coming Friday to the Cliftona theatre.

This is Miss Shearer's fifth talking picture and is regarded by critics as the smartest performance of her career. Miss Shearer made her audible debut in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and her last role was in the sensational talkie of the Ursula Parrot novel, "The Divorcee."

Robert Z. Leonard, who directed "The Divorcee," is again credited with the direction of the new Shearer film. Recognized as one of the screen's foremost directors in silent films, Leonard has more than equalled this reputation since the advent of talkies, filming "Marianne" and "In Gay Madrid" before directing Miss Shearer.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

An exact reproduction of one of the most beautiful estates in picturesque Old Mexico was built for the setting of the "Monte Carlo" number of "King of Jazz," starring Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, which is now playing at the Metropolitan theatre.

Jeanette Loff, whose sweet beauty has made her beloved of motion picture audiences, plays opposite Boles, with the famous European dancing twins, the "Sisters G," prominent in the cast with George Chiles and the celebrated Russell Market dancers.

"Monte Carlo" is one of the loveliest numbers in the all-Movietone, all-Technicolor super-extravaganza which was directed by John Murray Anderson, noted producer of the "Greenwich Village Follies" and other famous New York musical shows.

New York Courts Swayed When Larceny Charges Are Filed in Court.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—New York's courts swayed today with a new scandal, following the holding of three city employees on charges of grand larceny. They were accused of a shortage in the accounts of the alimony bureau of the family court.

One of the three accused men told authorities he had loaned $4,500 of the amount to Edwin J. Cooley, former chief of the court of general sessions probation bureau. Cooley was recently acquitted of falsifying bureau records.

Meanwhile it was announced that the city's inquiry into magistrates' courts will be extended to include all lawyers in these courts. Referee Samuel Seary will begin the magistrates investigation on Monday.

The extraordinary grand jury which indicted four persons in the investigation of charges that former Magistrate George F. Ewald paid $10,000 for his seat on the bench was to resume its deliberations today.

Darany is under two indictments. He is a defendant in one with Mike Smith and "Big John" Gust, and in another with Smith and John Gouris.

The four men are charged with being implicated in an alleged vice and bootleg graft ring, details of which were revealed last week at the trial of E. E. Curtis, former Canton safety director, who was found guilty of conspiracy and sentenced to two years in Atlanta penitentiary.

Curtis was to be removed from county jail today and taken to Atlanta to begin his sentence.

In presenting the government's opening statement today, U. S. District Attorney's charged that Darany, while acting as the head of the Canton police vice squad, made arrangements with bootleggers to tip them off on police raids in advance for which he received a "protection fee."

The three reputed bootleggers who went on trial with the ex-police sergeant are accused of having been involved in the plot with Darany for "protection."

CO-OP OBTAINS TOP MART PRICE

Fine Returns Reported By Briggs; Expanded Facilities Are Big Help.

With a top on hogs at Pittsburgh of $11.05 and with the top on hogs at both Cincinnati and Chicago at $10.75, Harry J. Briggs, livestock manager of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association, sold a car of Hampshire hogs averaging 210 pounds at $11.00 at the Circleville Yards. These hogs were fed by John McKenzie of Pickaway - twp and were a very well finished set of hogs. Other sales made by Mr. Briggs were: 57 head of cattle for W. G. Hyde and Harley Mace of New Holland, at $11.60 per hundred less three per cent shrink; 30 head for Sterley Hitler, Washington-twp to go December 1, at $11.10, per hundred, weighed in Circleville. A car of cattle sold for J. R. Schaaf of Laureville to be delivered October 15 at $10.60 per hundred.

The Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association through the support of livestock producers throughout the county and neighboring territory has developed a livestock marketing service which reflects terminal market prices on Circleville delivery on a number of different classes of livestock delivered by the producer. The facilities which have been expanded recently afford an opportunity for increased revenue to the hog feeder, veal calf producer, lamb producer and cattle feeder who is willing to finish out his respective class of livestock in good marketable condition.

WAR VETERAN BACK TO LIFE

"Robert Marcey" Buried But Writes Then Appears At Home In Day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Files at the war department, veterans bureau and Arlington national cemetery record a military funeral for Robert J. Marcey, 32, World War veteran. He was buried Friday with his parents, six brothers, two sisters and scores of friends attending the funeral.

Today these official records will be marked erroneous and efforts will be made to identify the man who was identified and buried as Marcey.

The mourning relatives were startled a few days ago when they received a post card from their supposedly dead son. It was followed by his appearance home and then joy reigned.

The man buried as Marcey was a hitch-hiker and was killed in a motor mishap at Upper Falls, Md. A part of his face was torn away. The undertaker said Marcey and the dead man greatly resembled each other.

Marcey's sister read a press account of the accident and that the dead man was hitch-hiking from Washington to Philadelphia in quest of work. Her brother was doing just that and she went to Upper Falls and identified the body. The remainder of the family also believed the man was Marcey—until Marcey returned home very much alive.

HUNT WEALTH OF LOST MAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Search for supposed hidden wealth of Judge Joseph F. Crater, missing supreme court jurist, was to be started today by District Attorney Crain. All banks in the city were to be asked if they had rented safety deposit boxes to Crater or his wife.

Sally Ritz, also known as Sally Lou Ritz, a dancer, located at Youngstown, O., gave the information that the judge told her on August 6 he was "going to Westchester for a swim."

CO-OP OBTAINS TOP MATT PRICE

Fine Returns Reported By Briggs; Expanded Facilities Are Big Help.

With a top on hogs at Pittsburgh of $11.05 and with the top on hogs at both Cincinnati and Chicago at $10.75, Harry J. Briggs, livestock manager of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association, sold a car of Hampshire hogs averaging 210 pounds at $11.00 at the Circleville Yards. These hogs were fed by John McKenzie of Pickaway - twp and were a very well finished set of hogs. Other sales made by Mr. Briggs were: 57 head of cattle for W. G. Hyde and Harley Mace of New Holland, at $11.60 per hundred less three per cent shrink; 30 head for Sterley Hitler, Washington-twp to go December 1, at $11.10 per hundred, weighed in Circleville. A car of cattle sold for J. R. Schaaf of Laureville to be delivered October 15 at $10.60 per hundred.

The Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association, through the support of livestock producers throughout the county and neighboring territory has developed a livestock marketing service which reflects terminal market prices on Circleville delivery on a number of different classes of livestock delivered by the producer. The facilities which have been expanded recently afford an opportunity for increased revenue to the hog feeder, veal calf producer, lamb producer and cattle feeder who is willing to finish out his respective class of livestock in good marketable condition.

WAR VETERAN BACK TO LIFE

"Robert Marcey" Buried But Writes Then Appears At Home In Day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Files at the war department, veterans' bureau and Arlington national cemetery record a military funeral to Robert J. Marcey, 32, World War veteran. He was buried Friday with his parents, six brothers, two sisters and scores of friends attending the funeral.

Today these official records will be marked erroneous and efforts will be made to identify the man who was identified and buried as Marcey.

The mourning relatives were startled a few days ago when they received a post card from their supposedly dead son. It was followed by his appearance home and then joy reigned.

The man buried as Marcey was a hitch-hiker and was killed in a motor mishap at Upper Falls, Md. A part of his face was torn away. The undertaker said Marcey and the dead man greatly resembled each other.

Marcey's sister read a press account of the accident and that the dead man was hitch-hiking from Washington to Philadelphia in quest of work. Her brother was doing just that and she went to Upper Falls and identified the body. The remainder of the family also believed the man was Marcey—until Marcey returned home very much alive.

HUNT WEALTH OF LOST MAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Search for supposed hidden wealth of Judge Joseph F. Crater, missing supreme court jurist, was to be started today by District Attorney Crain. All banks in the city were to be asked if they had rented safety deposit boxes to Crater or his wife.

At the same time a tip that Crater had been seen in Havana following his disappearance here August 6 was to be investigated. Another report authorities will check was that the justice had planned to go swimming the day he was last seen.

Sally Ritz, also known as Sally Lou Ritz, a dancer, located at Youngstown, O., gave the information that the judge told her on August 6 he was "going to Westchester for a swim."

WOLVERINES NEED GUARDS

Harry Kipke At Michigan Moves Backfield Men Into Center of Line.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 25.—Along about 6 p. m. on the evening of Oct. 11, Coach Harry Kipke will probably be better able to tell you whether the University of Michigan has a football team or just another squad of football players.

At that hour the Wolverines first Big Ten game with Purdue will have gone down into history, and upon its outcome will largely hinge the success or failure of the 1930 Michigan hopes.

Kipke's position is similar to that of Sam Willaman at Ohio and Bob Zuppke at Illinois. Not until he has seen his comparatively green aggregation perform under fire can he be certain of what he has.

Experienced men for the middle of the line are Michigan's biggest need. So hard up is the coach for dependable performers that he has taken three of his biggest backs and converted them into forwards—two of them into guards and the other into a center. Upon the success of these line transformations, Kipke admits, depends largely the success of the team, for he will have little difficulty in choosing a good backfield.

Ends and tackles aren't causing the Wolverine mentor much worry.

Four men who could be classed as regulars last season are on hand to fill these posts. Bill Hewitt and Norman Daniels, both 180-pounders and hawks at snaring passes, will care for the flanking jobs.

Leo Draveling, a senior, who is looked upon as a likely All-American, will be one of the tackles. Howard Auer, who saw considerable action last year, will be the other.

When it comes to choosing guards, however, Kipke's troubles start. His first choice seems to be Stanley Hozier, a fullback two years ago who was out of school last season. He weighs 185 pounds, Ira Grinnell or Tom Samuels, a couple of 200-pounders, are leading the fight for the other guard position.

Maynard Morrison, whose 210 pounds occupied a fullback berth on last year's team, will be the regular center this season.

HORNSBY TO CHANCE CUBS

Offense of Chicago Team Under Rajah To Be Built Around Hack Wilson.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Runners of a shakeup in the Chicago Cubs ranks which will see 12 players transferred under the 1931 regime of Rogers Hornsby were heard today as the Chicago club opened its four game series with the Cincinnati Reds here.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Cubs for the past five years, will be in command of the club for the last time. He was persuaded to return and coach the club through the remainder of the season by President William Veeck.

The dozen players slated to go under Hornsby's rebuilding process included no present stars, it was learned. The offensive power of the revamped Cubs is to be built around Hack Wilson, stocky home run king. The exact nature of the changes was not revealed.

"I will definitely announce my plans later," said Hornsby following a conference with Veeck.

Hornsby, who has agreed to sign a contract at a substantial increase over the $27,000 he has received in the past two years, will assume charge of the team immediately following the city series with the White Sox.

COB FIGHTS BIG CAMPOLO

Odds of Three To One On Sharkey Expected at Ring-side In New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—With the public displaying a distinct, if not prodigious, apathy toward the event, Jack Sharkey, one of the most mysterious figures in the prize ring, and Victorio Campolo, South American giant, engage in a scheduled fifteen-round brawl at Yankee Stadium tonight. Quite conceivably, the affair may result in a double knock-out; a sock on the chin for the untutored Campolo and a financial blow on the bottom for the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Neatly typed blurbs dealing with the alleged merits of the gladiators have been emanating for weeks from the Garden's public relations office but only a modicum of the output has found its way into the sports page. For good and sufficient reasons, the old ballyhoo has fallen flat. The event, it seems, comes close to the category of "no contest." Maybe the Garden, which guaranteed Sharkey $100,000 for this appearance, will not go "in the red" but it certainly will declare no extra dividends from this encounter which looms as one of the most on-sided heavy-weight extravaganzas in recent boxing history.

Betting odds will be at least 3 to 1 against Campolo by ringtime. Big, clumsy and unskilled in the fine points of the so-called manly art of boxing, Campolo is going up against a clever, hard hitting and thoroughly experienced fighter who, in his last battle with Max Schmeling, had the championship of the world in his grasp only to muf his opportunity by slinging a low blow into foul territory.

CARDS NEED TWO GAMES

Meet Pittsburgh Pirates in First Contest Today—Brooklyn on Skids.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Taking on the Pirates, the St. Louis Cardinals today launch their final drive for the 1930 bunting in the National League. To win today and tomorrow for the Cards will give them the title. The Chicago Cubs, three games in the rear, have an almost hopeless chance to overhaul the powerful Redbirds.

The bedraggled Robins, evidently as downcast over their slump as a thwarted lover, collapsed further this morning in the ratings, moving into fourth place below the Giants as a result of their 6 to 3 overthrow by the Phillies. It was the seventh loss in a row for Brooklyn. Three Brooklyn hurlers were ineffective and the Phils gathered 14 hits. Among them was Klein's 40th homer. The ragged way in which the Robins played showed the game didn't mean much to them but out in left field was a young man as excited as a young lady fiddler playing her first concert. He was Hal Lee, youthful Brooklynite. And whoops! Hal made his second hit of the season. Larry French gave the Reds only five hits in a contest curtailed because of rain to win for the Pirates. Traynor homered. Boston pulled three double plays to back up Hod Lisenbee's fairly effective pitching and the Ruddy Sox of Boston climbed over the Washington Senators 6 to 3. Chicago and the Giants both were idle yesterday so there were no changes in the league leaders of the National plant except Brooklyn's fall. Standings this morning were:

last year and the four veterans are expected to form the smoothest running outfit in the Buckeye conference this season. There will be good relief material, however, from a group of sophomores who are shaping up well. Miller, Romp, Sanderson, Gerald Cheadle and Du Bois have been giving the best promise.

Coach Chester Pittser will take 35 men to Bloomington Saturday to tackle the Hoosiers. Miami is going out of its class but the big red eleven will give Pat Page's big ten team a battle in every phase of the game.

Pittser is using a modified Illinois form of offense with a sprinkling of far west plays in his bag of tricks. All of his first-string backfield men are fair passers and receivers.

The Miami mentor is certain that his 1930 team will land higher in the Buckeye conference than his last year's eleven did. The outlook is certainly rosy, provided, of course, that the usual Miami injury jinx does not do too much dirt.

The tentative starting line-up is Gordon and Halpin, ends; Pauls and Vaccariello, tackles; Rogers and Taurman, guards; North, center; Games, quarterback; Corry, fullback, and Butler and Cartwright, halfbacks.

Kipke's position is similar to that of Sam Willaman at Ohio and Bob Zuppke at Illinois. Not until he has seen his comparatively green aggregation perform under fire can he be certain of what he has.

Experienced men for the middle of the line are Michigan's biggest need. So hard up is the coach for dependable performers that he has taken three of his biggest backs and converted them into forwards and other into a center. Upon the success of these line transformations, Kipke admits, depends largely the success of the team, for he will have little difficulty in choosing a good backfield.

Ends and tackles aren't causing the Wolverine mentor much worry. Four men who could be classed as regulars last season are on hand to fill these posts. Bill Hewitt and Norman Daniels, both 180-pounders and hawks at snaring passes, will care for the flanking jobs.

Leo Draveling, a senior, who is looked upon as a likely All-American, will be one of the tackles. Howard Auer, who saw considerable action last year, will be the other.

When it comes to choosing guards, however, Kipke's troubles start. His first choice seems to be Stanley Hoizer, a fullback two years ago who was out of school last season. He weighs 185 pounds. Ira Grinnell or Tom Samuels, a couple of 200-pounders, are leading the fight for the other guard position.

Maynard Morrison, whose 210 pounds occupied a fullback berth on last year's team, will be the regular center this season.

GOB FIGHTS BIG CAMPOLO

Odds of Three To One On Sharkey Expected at Ring-side In New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—With the public displaying a distinct, if not prodigious, apathy toward the event, Jack Sharkey, one of the most mysterious figures in the prize ring, and Victorio Campolo, South American giant, engage in a scheduled fifteen-round brawl at Yankee Stadium tonight. Quite conceivably, the affair may result in a double knock-out; a sock on the chin for the untutored Campolo and a financial blow on the button for the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Neatly typed blurbs dealing with the alleged merits of the gladiators have been emanating for weeks from the Garden's public relations office but only a modicum of the output has found its way into the sports page. For good and sufficient reasons, the old ballyhoo has fallen flat. The event, it seems, comes close to the category of "no contest." Maybe the Garden, which guaranteed Sharkey $100,000 for this appearance, will not go "in the red" but it certainly will declare no extra dividends from this encounter which looms as one of the most on-sided heavy-weight extravaganzas in recent boxing history.

Betting odds will be at least 3 to 1 against Campolo by ringtime. Big, clumsy and unskilled in the fine points of the so-called manly art of boxing, Campolo is going up against a clever, hard hitting and thoroughly experienced fighter who, in his last battle with Max Schmeling, had the championship of the world in his grasp only to muff his opportunity by slinging a low blow into foul territory.

Sea Claims English Land

Every year England loses by erosion a tract of land the size of Gibraltar. On the east coast the annual loss equals in territory the island of Heligoland. In the last 100 years a portion of England equal in area to the county of London has been submerged.

CARDS NEED TWO GAMES

Meet Pittsburgh Pirates in First Contest Today—Brooklyn on Skids.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Taking on the Pirates, the St. Louis Cardinals today launch their final drive for the 1930 bunting in the National League. To win today and tomorrow for the Cards will give them the title. The Chicago Cubs, three games in the rear, have an almost hopeless chance to overhaul the powerful Redbirds.

The bedraggled Robins, evidently as downcast over their slump as a thwarted lover, collapsed further this morning in the ratings, moving into fourth place below the Giants as a result of their 6 to 3 overthrow by the Phillies. It was the seventh loss in a row for Brooklyn. Three Brooklyn hurlers were ineffective and the Phils gathered 14 hits. Among them was Klein's 40th homer. The ragged way in which the Robins played showed the game didn't mean much to them but out in left field was a young man as excited as a young lady fiddler playing her first concert. He was Hal Lee, youthful Brooklynite. And whoops! Hal made his second hit of the season. Larry French gave the Reds only five hits in a contest curtailed because of rain to win for the Pirates. Traynor homered.

Boston pulled three double plays to back up Hod Lisenbee's fairly effective pitching and the Ruddy Sox of Boston climbed over the Washington Senators 6 to 3.

Chicago and the Giants both were idle yesterday so there were no changes in the league leaders of the National plant except Brooklyn's fall. Standings this morning were:

Relief from Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing a dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 at 25c at the nearest Rexall Store, Hamilton & Ryan.—Adv.

Not Adapted to English

No less than eight Hebrew words are translated river in our English Bible. All have different shades of meaning, ranging from water-courses only occasionally bearing water (Nahal), to rivers likely at times to be in overflow flood (Zoar). These delicate degrees of meaning are incapable of being reproduced in our more prosaic language.

CRILE STATEMENT

IS CAUSE OF STIR

DAYTON, O., Sept. 25.—Every living cell, plant or animal, is a tiny electric battery and each heart beat liberates an electrical wave.

This statement, which was made by Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, who is attending a three-day session here of the second councilor district, Ohio Medical Association, today was causing much discussion among the physicians who have gathered here for the meeting.

"When the system of batteries consisting of the millions of cells that make up the human body ceases to operate in a harmonious manner required to liberate such waves, death results," the doctor stated. "By experiment, we have found that when the electrical charge is taken from the amoeba death occurs in the form of disintegration of the cell. Restore the charge just before dissolution and the amoeba revives.

Dr. Crile is here to deliver a series of lectures on his new theory.

Harder to Bear
It seems to me harder to find a man who bears good fortune well, than one who bears evil.—Xenophon.

AUTO HITS MAN

CAUSING DEATH

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—W. H. Victor, 75, is dead here today as the result of injuries which he sustained when he stepped into the path of an automobile which was driven by Calvin Ivory, a negro.

Ivory is being held for investigation.

Smile's Great Value

COURT DECIDES ELECTION CASE

Oral Arguments In Three Ohio Cases Submitted to Ohio Supreme Court.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—The Ohio supreme court today had disposed of three election cases in which oral argument was submitted at a special session of the court here Wednesday.

Acting upon a request for an order requiring the Hamilton-co election board to print the names of the candidates of the Citizens' party, of Cincinnati, on the November election ballot under their party designation, the supreme court so ordered. The court, however, rejected the proposal that the circle be placed above this list of candidates. As a result, a "straight" Citizens' ticket can only be voted by placing an X opposite the name of each candidate, instead of placing a single X mark in a circle at the top of the ticket.

The supreme court rejected the suit of Pearl V. Whetsel, Columbus, who sought to invalidate the renomination at the August Republican primary election of Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, also of Columbus, as Franklin county coroner. The judges agreed with Whetsel that the letters "M. D." were unlawfully printed on the ballots after Murphy's name, but held that Whetsel should have protested in time to remedy the situation prior to the primary election.

The court also rejected the application of David Klein, Cleveland, for an order requiring the Cuyahoga-co election board to place his name on the ballot as a nonpartisan candidate for clerk of the Cuyahoga-co courts.

NINE DROWN IN CHANNEL GALE
Three-day Storm Calms Down; Ships Stagger Into Several Ports.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Storm-battered channel coasts of both France and England recovered their breath today following a terrific three-day gale that at times mounted to a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

Nine persons were known to have perished on the French side of the coast, with damage to coastal property and shipping feared extremely heavy.

According to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Boulogne, the trawler Notre Dame Des Argentes limped into port hours behind schedule with two survivors of the Dutch steamer Foxhol, which sank off the Goodwin sandbanks with the loss of the captain, his wife and child, and a deckhand.

Advice from Paris stated four sailors were known to have drowned in various other gale mishaps along the French coast. No deaths were reported on the English side.

The swirling wind, which whipped the channel and North Sea in to furious waves of mountainous heights, strewn both shores with land and sea wreckage. The extent of the property damage has not as yet been fully revealed.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—A murder presumably committed 200 years ago was uncovered by workmen digging a road in the Alps overlooking Geneva with the finding of a woman's skeleton, a steel dagger between her ribs. Swiss coins dating back to 1710 lay beside her.
